

"COLLABORATE FOR SUCCESS"

A Great Source for Information The above referenced text, published recently as part of the American College of Healthcare Executives Management Series, contains an excellent chapter entitled "Taking a Proactive, Collaborative Approach to Malpractice Issues." Authored by Andrew Feldman, Esq., a member of Academic's excellent panel of defense attorneys, it contains much current data and a sensible approach to many potential malpractice issues. We have found it to be a wonderful addition to the limited published information on this subject. We congratulate Mr. Feldman on this publication and recommend it highly.
